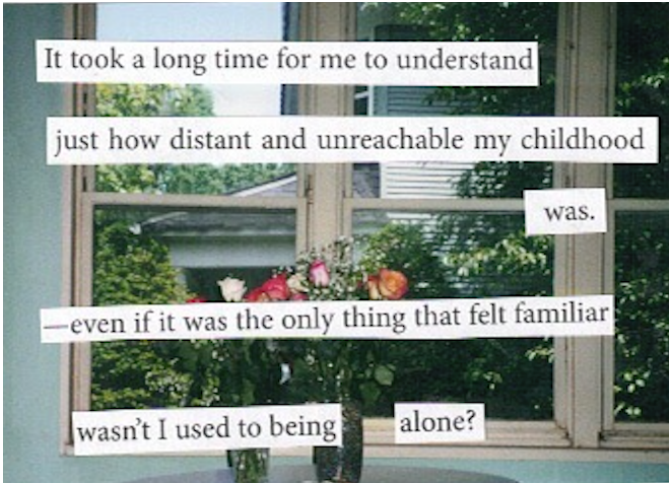
"Never a dull moment."



It took a long time for me to understand just how distant and unreachable my childhood was.
—even if it was the only thing that felt familiar wasn't I used to being alone?

And . . . of course . . .
when they were young,
children were brought up much more strictly than they are now.

"Misunderstood Children." Well, children and fools were supposed to tell the truth.

stop patronizing us as if we were idiot children.
"I should of course have remembered that I have no right to try to teach your children anything."

I think
everyone has heard
the term “prison
industrial complex.”
